Riverview Review

Volume 1, Issue 1 JUNE 2025

National Nursing Home Week Was A Blast

To say that National Nursing Home Week was fun for both residents and staff would be an understatement! It was truly a fantastic week for Riverview. Did you know we had 13 teams competing in the Scavenger Hunt? I had a bunch of staff in my office throughout the week looking for a number of items to cross off their list and I was never in so many pictures! It was so much fun!

Speaking of fun, the Staff / Resident Family Feud was fantastic! It was great to see the staff and residents collaborate on this. While my team made it to the final round, we lost a very competitive game at the end.

I truly am thankful to the staff that planned, and participated, in a week that was enjoyed tremendously by both staff and residents.

Your Partner in Caring,

Michael

CNAs and PCTc are the heros—the champions—of their patients. As the frontline of care, they create environments where individuals feel seen, heard, and truly cared for.

This year's theme also reflects the incredible growth of NAHCA, with members spanning the globe—just like the lyrics from Queen's iconic anthem: "We are the champions.... OF THE WORLD!

Mark your calendars! CNA Week 2025 is happening June 12—18.

The Joy of Summer Beginnings

The arrival of June heralds the joyous beginnings of summer, a time when the world seems to burst forth with energy, color, and life. This season, marked by its vibrant landscapes and warm, inviting weather, presents an ideal backdrop for celebrations, particularly those as special as a birthday. The anticipation of summer, with its promise of new adventures and experiences, mirrors the excitement surrounding another year of growth and discovery.

With the longer days and milder nights, June offers ample opportunity for outdoor activities and gatherings. Celebrating a birthday this month means being able to take full advantage of the beautiful weather, creating memories under the vast, open sky. The joy of summer beginnings is also about the promise of what's to come.

June is like a symphony of flowers, with each bloom playing its part in the grand performance of summer's arrival. This is a time when the most varied and vibrant flowers come into bloom, creating a spectacle of color and fragrance that captivates the senses.

Furthermore, the ephemeral beauty of June flowers remind us of the preciousness of the present moment. Like a fleeting melody, the blooms inspire us to savor the here and now, making them the perfect emblem for a birthday—a time to pause, reflect, and appreciate the passage of time.

Lastly, the act of giving and receiving flowers fosters a connection between people, creating shared moments of happiness and appreciation. In June, when the world is alive with the symphony of flowers, florists plays a vital role in turning these natural wonders into expressions of human emotion and celebration, making every moment an occasion to remember.
